Steps To Take After a Truck Accident

- Was someone else at fault? If another person or party was negligent, you may have a claim.
- Did you suffer injuries or financial loss? Factors like medical expenses, lost wages, and pain and suffering contribute to the value of your case.
- Are you within Arizona's statute of limitations? In most scenarios, you have two years from the date of your injury to file a claim.

What Is My Personal Injury Case Worth?

Several factors influence the final determination of a personal injury case, including:

- Injury Severity: More serious injuries generally result in higher compensation.
- Medical Expenses: Current and future treatment costs are included.
- Lost Wages: Recover compensation for time off work or reduced earning capacity.
- Pain & Suffering: Emotional distress and reduced quality of life also impact case value.
- Insurance & Liability: The at-fault party's coverage may also affect potential compensation.
